ENRICHMENT ISN'T EXTRA. IT'S EVERYTHING FOR KITTY

Small changes here add up to a completely different day for kitty.

Think about kitty's average Tuesday.

Wake up. Eat. Watch the window. Sleep. Wait for you to come home. No plans, no social life, no choice to just go outside.

Kitty's whole world is whatever exists inside your four walls — and the fact that you're reading this means you're already paying attention most Cat Lovers never do.

Here's the easy part: research points to just 20–30 minutes of active enrichment a day for a measurable difference in mood and behavior.

HERE'S WHAT THAT CAN LOOK LIKE a 10-minute wand session with something that actually moves like prey (the Interactive Bird Simulation Cat Toy Set does this well), a fountain that turns drinking water into something worth investigating (the Stainless Steel Cat Water Fountain), or a window that plays all day on its own (the Window Bird Feeder). None of it takes much time or money — just the right thing in reach.
